

How can I add positive data to my credit report?

Written by Brett Bruce

Monday, 09 March 2009 22:51 -

Since the Fair Credit Reporting Act does not require creditors to report information about you, many do not. That means positive information may not be reported. As long as the positive information is verified, it can be added to your credit report.